Milner Asserts He Attended Party Meetings With Longshoreman

DEFENDANT DENIES

Claims Non-Membership In Effort To Prevent Deportation

SAN FRANCISCO, July 11.—(AP)—Lawrence Milner, one of the labor department's key witnesses in the deportation trial of Harry Bridges, was called back to the witness stand today for cross-examination after testifying that the west coast C. I. O. director was a member of the Communist party.

Milner [illegible] the Oregon national guard, at the opening session yesterday [illegible] he had worked as a national guard [illegible] agent tracking [illegible] activities in the Pacific [illegible] and declared he was certain Bridges was a Communist.

Bridges denied he is or ever was a member of the party.

The Australian-born longshoremen's leader, who came to the United States in 1920, is charged with being an alien member of an organization which "advocates the overthrow by force and violence of the government of the United States." The hearing is at Angel island, United States immigration station in San Francisco bay.

Bridges was the most [illegible] man in the [illegible] drive on the west coast, Milner said after declaring he had seen Bridges pay dues to the Communist party but refuse a receipt.

Milner said he and Bridges attended meetings of the Communist party [illegible] together. He said Communist leaders agreed [illegible] Bridges [illegible]

The retired officer testified he had filed 1,400 pages of reports on radical activities and about 77 of them were devoted to Bridges. The entire report, at the request of Attorney Thomas B. Shoemaker for the labor department, was [illegible] for identification as a single affidavit.

Dolezal Says He Put It Where Steam Shovel Covered It With Dirt

CLEVELAND, July 11.—(AP)—Frank Dolezal, confessed slayer of one of Cleveland's 12 torso murder victims, was declared sane by two county psychiatrists after two hours examination today.

Dolezal, 52-year-old former bricklayer and butcher, was examined by Drs. S. C. Lindsay and K. S. West.

CLEVELAND, July 11.—(AP)—Sheriff Martin L. O'Donnell said today he was convinced that Frank Dolezal, confessed slayer of one of Cleveland's 12 torso murder victims, had revealed the true place where the head of Mrs. Florence Polillo, the third victim, was buried and that he would have him examined by psychiatrists and then ask him to sign another confession.

Dolezal told a third story about disposition of the head while taking a lie-detector test, the sheriff said. He then led officers to a spot on the lakefront not far from where the 11th and 12th headless dead were found last August.

O'Donnell quoted Dolezal as saying: "I took it to near East Twenty-sixth street, on the lakefront, where I was working on WPA. I got there at 6 in the morning ahead of the other workers. I put it in a little hole by the steam shovel. Then I covered it with some dirt. Then the steam shovel dumped more dirt over it. It might be 20 feet down."

The sheriff said no effort would be made to fund the head because exca-

FUSH AND THREE OTHERS INJURED

NEW ORLEANS, July 11.—(AP)—J. M. Fush, assistant to the general manager of the dock board, and three other persons were injured last night in an automobile collision near Lutcher.

Fush and the driver of his car, Clarence Kurtz, were brought here to Baptist hospital and treated for minor cuts and bruises. Physicians said they should be able to leave the hospital today.

Charles Bonacorse, Baton Rouge butcher, and his negro chauffeur, occupants of the other car, were taken to the capital for treatment.

Fush, returning here from Baton Rouge, said the accident occurred in a heavy rain storm.

$500,000 TAKEN FROM CONCERNS OF PENDERGAST

Employe Of Company Says Many Improper Checks Issued

KANSAS CITY, July 11.—(AP)—Tom Pendergast, Democratic boss imprisoned for cheating Uncle Sam of several hundred thousand dollars in income taxes, himself was robbed of $500,000 in the last 12 years, says a story in the Kansas City Star.

The Star says auditors and treasury agents have discovered a former high [illegible] cashed $58,000 in checks on Pendergast companies. What became of the remainder has not been established. Employes swear that Pendergast did not learn of the looting until just before he entered prison two months ago.

The looting was done, the Star says, through bogus invoices sent to Pendergast companies' offices by other firms. Concerns looted were Ready-Mixed Concrete company, Midwest Paving company and others.

The Star quotes Walter Colburn, an employe of the companies 13 years, as saying he entered the invoices on orders of Edward Schneider, secretary-treasurer. Schneider committed suicide in April while federal agents investigated Pendergast's income.

Colburn declared neither he nor Schneider ever received a penny from the looting and Schneider "never explained where the money went."

The audit, ordered by stockholders of the companies, which recently passed from Pendergast's control,

NORTH DAKOTA VOTES ON PENSION MONEY

FARGO, N. D., July 11.—(AP)—North Dakota voters ballot today in a special election on four measures proposed by former Governor William Langer to help pay for the $40 minimum old age pensions sponsored by Langer and enacted at the general election last fall.

Because of a lack of funds the state has been operating under the old plan of $30 maximum old age pensions.

The measures include a proposal for a gross income tax, a system of municipal liquor stores and a moratorium on highway construction for two years, the proceeds to go for old age pensions, relief and into the general revenue funds of the state and counties.

The fourth proposal, a referendum of an act passed at the last session of the legislature abolishing the office of the grain storage commissioner, upon being signed by more than 30,000 voters forced Democratic Governor John Moses to call the special election and brought the three measures also to the ballot.

Although the total vote was not expected to approximate the 275,000 ballots cast in the general election last fall, political experts looked for a heavier vote than that cast in the last previous special election of 1935. At that time 141,056 votes were cast when the two per cent sales tax, still in effect, was enacted.

Attempt May Be Made To Bring Measure To Senate Floor

WASHINGTON, July 11.—(AP)—Secretary Hull announced today shortly after a senate committee had voted for postponement of neutrality legislation until next session that in the interest of "peace and security" the administration would continue to urge adoption of its program.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—(AP)—The senate foreign relations committee voted today to postpone until the next session of congress consideration of neutrality legislation.

The vote for postponement was 12 to 11, with Senators Gillette, Democrat, Iowa, and George, Democrat, Georgia, the previously doubtful members of the committee, voting for the delay.

Others who voted to postpone included:

Senators Reynolds, Democrat, North Carolina; Van Nuys, Democrat, Indiana; Clark, Democrat, Missouri; Shipstead, Farmer-Labor, Minnesota; White, Republican, Maine; Vandenberg, Republican, Michigan; La Fol-

L. S. U. BOARD EJECTS PRESS

Decides To Hold Closed Session Despite Long's Statement

BATON ROUGE, La., July 11.—(AP)—On motion of District Judge James D. Womack, a member whose term has expired, the Louisiana State university board of supervisors met today in special session behind closed doors.

The session was the third since Dr. James Monroe Smith resigned the school's presidency, after which the board, minus four members it had a month ago, became a target for alumni and faculty.

As the meeting was about to convene Judge Womack, the board's vice-president, moved that reporters should be excluded.

Previously, the jurist had threatened to have news men barred from the parish courthouse [illegible] took his picture while entering or leaving the grand jury room where he had been summoned for testimony in the investigation of university affairs under Dr. Smith's regime.

"I move that the press be excluded," Judge Womack told the board this morning.

"Yes," said Associate Justice John Fournet of the state supreme court, another board member, "we can give out whatever statements we wish to make after the meeting is over. I am sure the press will understand."

"Exactly," Judge Womack replied. "We'll ask the press to retire."

FRENCH OFFER PROPOSAL TO END DISPUTE

Would Let Germany Take City But Keep It Open To Poland

RUSSIA WARNS JAPAN

Says 'Insolent Raids Of Provocateurs To End In Fiasco'

By Associated Press.

Europe's hopes for a peaceful settlement of the menacing Danzig issue grew today on the strength of British Prime Minister Chamberlain's stand.

International discussion arose from Chamberlain's hint yesterday—while declaring that any German grab of the free city which Poland resisted would bring Britain to Poland's side—that "in a clearer atmosphere possible improvements could be discussed."

Semi-official French sources advanced the suggestion that Germany be permitted to take Danzig provided she keep it demilitarized and assure Poland of free use of the Vistula river and of the port of Danzig. They indicated that Poland approved.

Some Nazi circles in Berlin commented that a "reasonable solution" might be found but others charged Britain had muddied the atmosphere rather than cleared it. Danzig Nazis were scornful of Britain's stand.

In Paris after a long review of the international situation by Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet the French cabinet voted to prohibit until further order any trips by ministers.

Similar temporary measures had been taken from time to time before but this was the first definite ban, apparently aimed at keeping all members of the cabinet readily available.

Soviet Russia warned Japan to keep her hands off Outer Mongolia where there has been intermittent warfare since May 11 on the Mongolian frontier with Manchoukuo.

"The insolent raids of the Japanese provocateurs will end in a complete fiasco," declared Red Star, Soviet army newspaper, commenting on the

All Available Police Called Out For Duty In Minneapolis

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 11.—(AP)—A policeman's death following riotous scenes Monday between striking WPA workers and non-strikers in downtown Minneapolis brought all available police on duty today.

Night and mid-shift patrolmen were ordered to their posts by Chief of Police Frank Forestal as word spread that WPA strikers planned new demonstrations to protest lengthening of the WPA work month by congress.

Victim of Monday's violence was 40-year-old Patrolman John Gearty. Pummelled upon the head and shoulders by half a dozen men as he and Officer Paul Larson tried to put Frank Ficsher, 45, a non-striker, on a street car and get him away from a threatening crowd, Gearty died in a hospital shortly afterward. Dr. G. W. Callerstrom said he succumbed from coronary sclerosis, a heart condition aggravated by the beating.

At Fort Snelling, army post on the Mississippi river here, 20 additional military police were detailed to reservation entrances after pickets threatened workers leaving a veterans' hospital project.

In St. Paul, 36 night officers were called for day duty, with police cars tailing flying squads of strikers who roved about the city exhorting other workers to join walkouts which occurred on many projects as part of

BUSINESS PICKETING DECLARED ILLEGAL

ALBANY, N. Y., July 11.—(AP)—New York's court of appeals held today a labor union's picketing of a place of business because it purchased a non-union or rival union's product was a "secondary boycott" and illegal.

The highest state tribunal's opinion was given in reversing dismissal by the appellate division, supreme court, of the conviction of two members of two members of local three, New York City Electrical Workers' union, A. F. L., of disorderly conduct in connection with picketing of a Brooklyn handbag shop. The men said a sign over the shop was made by "labor (a unit of the International Industrial and Building Construction Workers of America) not represented by our union."

With a marine and a sailor on guard, the flag-draped casket of Secretary of the Navy Claude Swanson is shown as his body lay in state in the senate chamber in Washington just before funeral services attended by President Roosevelt and others high in national life. AMERICANS WIN 3 TO 1 VICTORY OVER NATIONALS

Junior Circuit Players Jump On Bill Lee For All Runs

YANKEE STADIUM, NEW YORK, July 11.—(AP)—Jumping on big Bill Lee of Chicago for all their runs in the fourth and fifth innings, the American league all-stars defeated their National league rivals, 3 to 1, in the seventh annual all-star game here today before a crowd of 63,000.

Tommy Bridges of Detroit, who pitched the middle third of the game for the Americans, was credited with the victory, the fifth scored in seven games by the junior circuit. He and young Bob Feller held the Nationals scoreless for the last six innings after they had scored their lone run off Red Ruffing of the Yankees in the third to take a brief lead.

A walk, singles by Hank Greenberg and George Selkirk and a glaring error by Arky Vaughan, National league shortstop, provided the Americans with two runs in the fourth inning. Joe DiMaggio's looping home run into the left field stands in the fifth closed the scoring.

LAWYERS PROPOSE BAN ON BOMBINGS

SAN FRANCISCO, July 11.—(AP)—A proposal to protect non-combatants and civilian populations from the horrors of aerial warfare was brought to the American Bar Association today.

The association's section on international and comparative law asked the parent group to approve a "world-wide agreement to cease for all time" the aerial bombardment of other than strictly "military objectives."

The 3,000 delegates at the 62nd annual meeting of the barristers held sectional meetings today prior to tomorrow's sessions of the general convention assembly and its house of delegates.

All manner of resolutions were prepared for consideration by the 200-member house of delegates—constituting, in effect, the lawyers' senate.

Edward C. Eicher, member of the securities and exchange commission, in an address prepared for the section on commercial law today, said public interest "has persuaded congress to enact the legislation" creating the commission, and commented that:

"The ownership of corporate securities has become so widely diffused among our people, that when rough financial weather overtook the corporate bark, no one but the management, with its monopoly of the bondholders' lists and the proxy machinery, enjoyed the opportunity to practice the slogan of rugged individualism."

Beefsteak On Hoof Excites Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, July 11.—(AP)—It was a quiet evening for Used Car Salesman George E. Green. A pal, Stan Seibel, dropped into the showroom and asked could he use the phone.

Sure, said George, so Stan dialled his number when crash!

A steer—you know, a beefsteak on the hoof—had barged through a plate glass window.

Stan dropped the phone and he and George ran for cover. The steer dived through another window and continued up Baltimore avenue, a block from the main business district.

The potential rib roast and 144 pals had broken out of the stockyards. Most of them were rounded up in short order but William Brady, night foreman at the yards, received calls for hours from citizens who had cornered one of the beasts in their garages or vice versa.

This particular porterhouse wandered clear up town, a matter of two miles or so and forged on towards the bright lights of the theater district.

Fourteen-year-old Leonard Cowee came along on his bicycle and thought

M'NUTT NAMED HEAD OF FSA

Roosevelt Announces Selection; To Keep Present Post Some Time

WASHINGTON, July 11.—(AP)—President Roosevelt nominated Paul V. McNutt today to be federal security administrator.

McNutt, who is American high commissioner to the Philippines, has indicated he will retain his present post for several weeks in order to clear up details.

The nomination, if confirmed, will bring into the administration the Democrat whose candidacy for the presidency in 1940 has been openly advocated by his friends. Whether President Roosevelt is giving him a boost toward the Democratic nomination for president in 1940, or whether the president is merely providing him a chance to show what he can do, was an argued point.

The former governor of Indiana will head one of three new agencies created under a plan for reorganization of the government. It will give him control over the social security board, CCC, Natonal Youth administration, public health service and various other agencies.

In the air-cooled senate and house cloakrooms, in the shady Georgetown gardens where society drinks mint juleps, and even on steamy street corners the question is the same:

Does the appointment mean that

PLANE CRASH KILLS 7

CONGRESSMEN NOW ANXIOUS TO QUIT WORK

May Aid Greatly In Shaping Outcome Of Disputes

WASHINGTON, July 11.—(AP)—Many congressmen would much rather go home than stay here and fire eight-syllable words at lending and neutrality bills.

The weather, away from the air-cooled work rooms of the members, is hot and sticky. Children are out of school. They clutter up Washington apartments. Wives would like to get away from the heat, back to less cramped quarters at home. And so would the members.

Vice-President Garner confesses to a deep yearning for Uvalde and his Texas fishing grounds. Speaker Bankhead got a week's leave of absence and hurried off to Canada.

This mood may have a great deal to do with shaping the outcome of the disputes over the president's lending program and the neutrality bill. It will tend to hasten agreement on the lending plan. It will be a factor in shortening the row over neutrality. And these are the two keys to adjournment.

The administration already has deleted from the lending program the section against which the sharpest opposition has been pointed—the suggestion that foreign loans were to be made by the export-import bank.

A more difficult job is ahead of those who are plugging for the neutrality bill. But with Vice-President Garner joining the veteran Senator Harrison, Democrat, Mississippi, and Democratic Leader Barkley in working out the tactical maneuvers, a smoothing of the apparent difficulties is not impossible there.

The claims of those who would retain the embargo against arms sales seem at first glance to be strong enough to block any senate action on the administration bill to repeal it. If as many as 34 senators are pledged to an unrelenting opposition to the

U. S. WON'T BLOCK PEACEFUL PICKETING

PHILADELPHIA, July 11.—(AP)—"Peaceful" mass picketing and strikes for a closed shop, even if these activities violate state law, cannot be restrained by federal courts in the opinion of the Third United States circuit court of appeals.

Judge Francis Biddle, newly appointed, delivered the opinion yesterday in upholding a lower court decision. With the approval of Judges Albert B. Maris and William Clark, he held that the Norris-LaGuardia act restricted federal courts' injunction powers in labor disputes to acts of violence or fraud.

Judge William H. Kirkpatrick in federal district court here had refused to grant an injunction to Wilson and company, meat packers, against three American Federation of Labor units.

Demanding a closed shop and dismissal of five non-union employes, the unions called a strike at a Wilson plant here last December. Mass picketing followed.

The company, in its injunction suit and appeal, contended Pennsylvania law forbids mass picketing.

CALL 34 WITNESSES

Attorneys For Resigned L. S. U. Head Promise Statement

NEW ORLEANS, July 11.—(AP)—More government agents moved today through the troubled Louisiana scene where a university scandal has spread into far-reaching inquiries.

While various federal officials probed the disposition of some of the $75,000,000 allocated the state by the WPA since 1935 and additional millions from the PWA, others searched for fraudulent use of the mails and income tax evasion.

At the same time the Baton Rouge parish grand jury sent for the largest list of witnesses summoned since Dr. James Monroe Smith was charged with swindling the state university of which he was president nine years.

The school's board of supervisors, under sharp fire by faculty members and slightly reduced by resignations, was called into session to consider numerous recommendations which Governor Earl K. Long said would be submitted to it.

Meanwhile attorneys for Dr. Smith, still in a Baton Rouge jail for lack of $50,000 bond, indicated they would make a statement for him today, although they did not reveal its nature.

Smith, when he was brought back under guard from Canada, exclaimed, "I was ill-advised to go away. I shall have more to say later." So far he has said nothing publicly.

Participating in the various inquiries are special investigators of the house appropriations subcommittee to probe WPA affairs, the United States attorney general's office, WPA and PWA intelligence units, the federal bureau of investigation, the federal grand jury, treasury department intelligence units, postal inspectors and the United States district attorney.

The governor announced he was investigating the Louisiana conservation department, which controls production of more than $100,000,000 of oil yearly in the state.

He emphasized the investigation was

U. S. SUES SIX OIL CONCERNS FOR $3,000,000

Attorney General Accuses Companies Of Conducting Monopoly

LOS ANGELES, July 11.—(AP)—Charging monopoly, the United States attorney general sued six major oil companies for $3,000,000 in federal court today.

The government seeks to establish the right of the secretary of interior to fix minimum royalty prices for oil and gas taken from federal lands and to collect royalties claimed due in the Kettleman hills North Dome field.

Francis B. Critchlow and James A. Murray, special assistants to the attorney general, made a three-year investigation before bringing the action.

They charge that since 1931 the major companies have monopolized the market for Kettleman hills crude oil and that the prices posted by them have been "non-competitive, arbitrary, unreasonable and inadequate; less than the price currently posted and paid by said defendants in other California fields for comparable crude and less than the value of such oil."

They also allege that immense quantities of natural gas have been taken from the field and improvidently marketed.

The action asks the defendants be ordered to pay $2,500,000 in royalties based on minimum valuations set by the interior department, or $3,000,000 based on the actual value of oil and gas produced.

If the defendants fail to comply

LONG INDICATES TOKENS 'OUT' SOON

BATON ROUGE, La., July 11.—(AP)—Strong indication was given by Governor Earl K. Long that use of tokens to collect the state's 1 per cent general sales tax may be abandoned.

He revealed yesterday members of the legislature were being polled for their opinion on the use of tokens although he gave no hint the sales tax, enacted in 1938, would be repealed.

He pointed out, though, that the collection system could be altered without calling a special legislative session. He said:

"The state department of revenue can change the system of collection by adoption of new rules and regulations, as it was empowered to do by the legislature. I believe 50 per cent of the resentment against the sales tax would evaporate if we got rid of the tokens."

Panic In Her Eyes

"THEN, when you came back to the club you went at once to the kitchen?"

"Well, practically at once. Everyone seemed so peaked and drawn and sort of lost, and Barney came out of the library looking as if he would fly apart. I thought perhaps if he had something to do—he wouldn't go back to quarters."

"And when did Annie arrive?"

"While the lights were out. I remember she frightened me for a moment. I had just lighted the candles and they weren't burning very brightly. She began to scold me—she always does—for being there alone in the dark. I wasn't really alone—Barney was just out in the corridor—but I was glad to see her."

Suddenly Adam put on his most persuasive manner. He reminded her that she was among friends. He assured her that nothing she said would ever again be mentioned by either of us. And then, in language less pointed than that lady had used, he repeated Mrs. Wheeler's story of seeing Anne leave Elizabeth's house in tears.

I don't know which of us was the more startled. Elizabeth held herself under rigid control, but there was no disguising the panic in her eyes nor the waves of flaming color that rushed into her face. Small beads of moisture sprang out across the bridge of her nose and on her upper lip, and her breathing was suddenly noisy.

"That is no concern of Mrs. Wheeler's," she said in a queer, strangled voice. "Nor of you or anyone else." She grew calmer. "The matter was purely personal between Anne and me. It could have no possible bearing on her [illegible]"

Wild horses could not have dragged more out of her, and Adam was too intelligent to try. He asked her to send Annie in to [illegible] eagerness like a bird dog at [illegible]

"Where else? At that hour."

She sniffed loudly, as if to remind him that she had her work to do and couldn't go sky-hooting around at all hours of the night—and now look at her!

I could almost hear the words chasing themselves around in her mind, but she was silent, in deference either to Adam's rank or to the gravity of the situation.

Adam leaned forward and lowered his voice. It's rather appalling to see a man turn on his charm as easily as he would the ignition switch of his car. I had watched him do it all evening, but it occurred to me that I had not noticed when he directed it at me. Or had he?

I took a rather mean satisfaction in seeing him fail this once, at least. For it definitely did not work on Annie. There was a slightly ribald gleam in her hooded eyes that vanished quickly as he stated his business—the same business he had been trying to forward all evening, but with no success.

"routine" and is in line with his inquiries into other state departments.

The executive made it plain that "the authority of some people" on the administrative and business staff at L. S. U. would be changed at the board of supervisors meeting.

Roger Bounds, national director of WPA investigation, arrived at the state capital yesterday to head WPA's own inquiry into its affairs. Nine other investigators of the agency are already at work there. It was their investigation that led to the arrest of Caldwell, Marshall and Caldwell's assistant.

Harry S. Barger and Thomas H. Reavis came from Washington to investigate for the house subcommittee. Three United States postal inspectors moved into the increasing probes.

At the same time specially-employed auditors were checking L. S. U.'s financial affairs to get ready a report for the supervisors meeting.

34 WITNESSES CALLED BY PARISH GRAND JURY

BATON ROUGE, La., July 11.—(AP)—Thirty-four persons, including Dr. Clarence Lorio, state senator, were under summons today to appear before the East Baton Rouge parish grand jury when it meets tomorrow.

District Attorney Dewey M. Sanchez, conducting the jury's investigation into Louisiana State university's financial affairs and those of the resigned president, Dr. James Monroe Smith, issued the subpoenas after the inquisitorial body adjourned late yesterday.

The jury has already returned five indictments growing out of the scandal against Dr. Smith, charged with swindling the school of $[illegible] 000, his wife [illegible] and broker's go-between.

Tomorrow's witnesses far outnumber any called since the jury began its investigation.

Dr. Lorio, one of the parish political leaders, is president of the Louisiana State Medical society and holds the position of physician at L. S. U. and physician and surgeon of the state penitentiary.

All 34 of the witnesses were in one way or another connected with L. S. U.

Before the jury adjourned Sanchez subpoenaed Mrs. Tressie Ledbetter Martin, head nurse at L. S. U. since 1927.

Witnesses yesterday were:

C. Gordon Johnson, university auditor and state representative N. Smith Hoffpauir, counsel for the highway commission and recently named secretary of the L. S. U. board of supervisors; George Caldwell, former L. S. U. construction superintendent and now under federal charges of diverting WPA materials to private use; Pike Burden, operator of a Baton Rouge printing house; Edgar Jackson, university business manager; and Frank S. Shattuck, state supervisor of public funds.

Shattuck has disclosed that Dr. Smith had Burden's concern print up a $475,000 unauthorized bond issue for use in Smith's fantastic market speculations. Shattuck has said Dr. Smith twice illegally had this same issue printed, as part of the nearly $2,000,000 university bonds the educator held ready for use as market collateral. Actually, Shattuck said, Smith used only $589,000 bonds in the market.

The new witnesses summoned included employes or former employes of the university cafeteria, of the building maintenance staff headed by Ira Nabors, superintendent of buildings and utilities, and other L. S. U. workers.

Those subpoenaed were A. C. Pickett, manager of the university cafeteria; N. U. Richard, former employe of the cafeteria; Edgar E. Folse, cafeteria butcher; Clarence Arris, negro employe at the cafeteria; Joe Williams and Leo Johnson, negroes formerly employed at the cafeteria; Dr. J. I. Martin, in charge of the Baton Rouge abbatoir.

J. B. Francioni, head of the L. S. U. department of animal industry; J. J. Johnson, engineer in the animal industry building; Walter Pilcher, manager of the Baton Rouge Supply company; Oscar Evans, manager of the Evans Electrical Supply company, Baton Rouge; William J. Riley of Monroe, who is completing a plumbing contract at L. S. U.

Eugene Barksdale, Caldwell's assistant construction superintendent at L. S. U., suspended from the university following a federal charge he conspired to misuse WPA funds; Roy B. Sparks, paymaster for Caldwell; James Marshall, WPA foreman under federal charge for misusing WPA funds.

Link Bryant, Baton Rouge negro reported as working on the house of James McLachlan in Metairie when the New Orleans States photographed an L. S. U. truck delivering building materials there.

B. Batts, H. Batts, Anthony Losavio, Sam Boudreaux, truck drivers at L. S. U.; Ernest Breeden, former labor foreman at the university; Jack McKnight and William Smith, L. S. U. electricians; two carpenter foremen named by Sanchez only as Toullier and Bowman; R. C. Force, former L. S. U. dairy employe.

Albert Scott, negro yardman for E. N. Jackson, L. S. U. business manager; [illegible], Alex Ellis, Raymond [illegible], Wash Burns, Baton Rouge negroes employed at the university, and Willie McKinney, L. S. U. employe.

stated yesterday future board meetings would be open, arrived a few minutes later. He was told the board had decided to hold a closed session but he entered the board room without comment. The doors remained closed.

Acting President Paul M. Hebert, it was believed, might answer the 19 faculty members who Saturday recommended a seven-point program for the betterment of the school.

Among their suggestions were a supervisory board free of political control, an end to censorship of the university's student publication and safeguarding the school's academic standings by preventing possibility of political favoritism to students.

Long pointed out that two board members are continuing to serve although their terms expired January 1, 1939. These are Judge James D. Womack of Baton Rouge and S. L. Maxwell of Canebrake.

This was to be the first board meeting since Long appointed Thema for Lewis Gottlieb, Baton Rouge banker, and John J. Doles, Plain Dealing banker. They replaced the resigned T. S. Landry, general manager of the state penitentiary, and L. P. Abernathy, chairman of the state highway commission.

Former Governor Richard W. Leche was an ex-officio board member, and the resigned Dr. Smith was secretary.

L. S. U. alumni in East and West Feliciana parishes have demanded resignation of the entire board.

When reminded yesterday that until two years ago reporters were admitted to the board meetings the governor said he saw no objection to the presence of newspapermen at the sessions.

"Of course," he said, "if the board wants to discuss the qualifications of a faculty member or something like that, it could ask the reporters to retire during the deliberations."

FINANCE COMMITTEE TO ACT ON BUDGETS

BATON ROUGE, La., July 11.—(AP)—The finance committee of the state board of education planned to act today on proposal budgets for 1939-40 for colleges and institutions under the board's supervision.

The institutions involved are Louisiana Polytechnic institute, Louisiana State Normal college, Southwestern Louisiana institute, Southeastern Louisiana college, Shreveport and Natchitoches Trade schools, Southern university, Louisiana Negro Normal and the State Schools for the Deaf and Blind.

The Better Way to Correct Constipation

One way to treat constipation is to endure it first and cure it afterward. The other way is to avoid having it by getting at its cause. So why not save yourself those dull headachy days, plus the inevitable trips to the medicine chest, if you can do it by a simple common-sense ounce of prevention?

If your trouble, like that of millions, is due to lack of "bulk" in the diet, the better way is to eat Kellogg's All-Bran. This crunchy, toasted, ready-to-eat cereal has just the "bulk" you need. If you eat it every day and drink plenty of water, you can not only get regular but keep regular day after day and month after month! All-Bran is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

showed Midwest Paving was looted of $285,000, Ready-Mixed of at least $200,000, and two minor companies of more than $10,000 each.

The Star calls the theft a "strange, inexplicable mystery" because "his own men swear Pendergast did not profit. * * * History of the thefts is so long that it has required weeks of close scrutiny. * * *"

It quotes Colburn:

"I wrote those checks on the Midwest Paving company myself, and I knew that they were not legitimate. We entered them in the cash entry books as proper expenses—materials, oils, supplies and other things. * * *

"Why? Schneider asked me to. I know at this minute Schneider never received a penny of that money and I know Mr. Pendergast didn't either. I'll swear to that. That money went somewhere and I don't know where it was. I wish I did know.

"I'll tell you why I never inquired. I figures this way. The less I knew of that kind of money the better off I was * * *

"I do know this:

"Often an invoice come in from a big firm and I would see it was false. I would throw it aside. Then I would get orders to write the check * * * And the check would come back from a big company, properly endorsed, leading me to believe that company got the money. I know that somebody in that company handled the money.

"I know that Mr. Pendergast never knew anything was wrong with his companies. I went to him before he went away (to prison).

"I told him we had this situation. I know it made him sick. But he took it."

Colburn said he had told his entire story to treasury agents and had given them all the checks involved. The agents declined comment.

davit and the relevancy of some of Milner's testimony, remarking "this appears to be merely the program of a group of longshoremen. What is the purpose of this testimony?"

Shoemaker replied the material was all relevant in a broad sense. It all tends to show that Harry Bridges was working for the interest of the Communist party and not in the interest of labor unions."

Bridges' testimony consisted of just four words. He said "I am" in answer to Shoemaker's question whether he was an alien and "no" to questions whether he was a Communist or ever had been one. He is expected to testify lengthily later.

Bridges wore an incredulous smile during most of Milner's testimony. It broadened to a grin when Milner described a meeting of 145 men in San Francisco the night of August 11, 1935, as a "fraction" or section meeting of the Communist party.

Aubrey Grossman, one of Bridges' attorneys, announced he would prove this so-called "fraction" meeting was just the regular caucus of leaders of the maritime federation of the Pacific held in advance of the convention.

President Roosevelt is giving the retiring high commissioner to the Philippines a boost toward the 1940 Democratic presidential nomination?

Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, who recently declined consideration as a vice presidential candidate, said flatly the object was "to build up McNutt for 1940."

Some politicians took a less direct view. They argued that Mr. Roosevelt was not necessarily showing favoritism for the former Indiana governor, but recognized his hat was in the ring and was giving him a chance to stand or fall on the record he will make in a key positon here.

While in the Philippines, McNutt was not involved in American internal politics, and there had been speculation that he might seek the presidential nomination as a compromise or middle-of-the-road candidate between the New Deal and anti-Roosevelt factions. Asked on his arrival here last Thursday about "this middle-of-the-road business," McNutt replied.

"That's usually the safest place to drive—when the road is clear it is."

The tanned, white-haired Indianan said at the same time that everything done in behalf of his candidacy had been on the assumption that Mr. Roosevelt would not run for a third term.

McNutt has not always been so close to the Roosevelt camp. He was reputed to have won the disfavor of James Farley, the Roosevelt campaign manager in 1932, because he did not swing the Indiana Democratic delegation into the Roosevelt ranks as quickly as Farley wished.

The first word of McNutt's acceptance of the security post came last night from Columbus, O., when he rejected an offer to become president of Ohio State university. The security position is one of three major administrative jobs created by the new government reorganization program.

McNutt will be 48 years old next week, Wednesday. A native of Franklin, Ind., he taught at the Indiana university law school after the World war, serving as dean from 1925 until his election as governor in 1932.

World war service as a major in the field artillery led to McNutt's becoming active in the American Legion, which he headed as national commander in 1928-29.

Dr. O'Hara is president of Louisiana state board of health and the L. C. A. while Fush is assistant to the general manager of the dock board.

State Treasurer A. P. Tugwell, gubernatorial candidate, recently said deductions from state employes' salaries in the past three years totaled $1,000,000.

The federal jury here is investigating reports 5 per cent systematically has been deducted from state employes' salaries.

Dolezal was not questioned about the other 11 slayings while being tested, O'Donnell declared.

O'Donnell had said questioning would be centered about the disposal of Mrs. Polillo's head, adding:

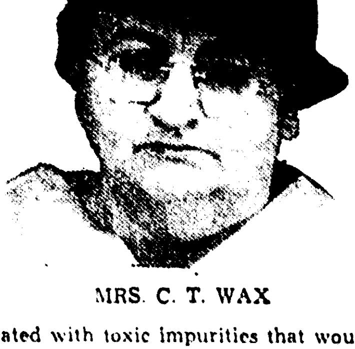
"I was so badly constipated even the strongest of cathartics failed in my case. My body was saturated with toxic impurities that would not be removed properly and for years my digestion was badly affected. Attacks of indigestion were sure to follow every meal I ate, gas formed in abundance pressing against my heart, I had awful dizzy spells, was nervous and felt miserable all the time. My back pained almost constantly, frequent bladder action was a constant worry and I was tired and pepless all the time. I finally became alarmed over my condition but it was not until I began Gly-Cas that I found the one real medicine to fit my case.



MRS. C. T. WAX

"I can now understand why Gly-Cas receives such ceaseless praise," continued Mrs. Wax. "In a very short time my bowels were functioning regularly giving me proper elimination of those clogged impurities which had caused me so much distress. My foods digest now without giving me any trouble, back-pains are relieved, my strength and energy is returning and I am certainly thankful to Gly-Cas for not disappointing me in its action."

CONGRESSMEN NOW ANXIOUS TO QUIT WORK

step, they could hold the senate in a filibuster until next winter's snows.

To break a filibuster requires the vote of two-thirds of the senate. Regardless of their feelings on neutrality, many senators vote against resolutions to shut off debate as a matter of principle.

This would seem to have the senate tied in a knot in advance of any action on neutrality. Yet, those close to the center of the dispute say this is not an actuality. They say the number of those who would go down the line to a last ditch fight against the administration's neutrality plan is far short of 34.

If the administration pushes hard enough, they say it can get about what it wants after two or three weeks of debate. More than one of the opponents of the administration plan are as vigorously opposed to a filibuster as other members are to stopping debate. They want full discussion of the plan, so that all the arguments can be mustered into the record, but they would stop short of a filibuster.

So, however much congress would like to escape from the heat of conflict and the Washington weather it has at least two weeks and perhaps a month more of words to wallow through.

STORMY OPPOSITION RISES IN BOTH HOUSES

WASHINGTON, July 11.—(AP)—While administration lieutenants were pressing for prompt enactment of President Roosevelt's $2,800,000,000 lending program, signs of stormy opposition appeared today in both house and senate.

Legislation to carry out the program was submitted yesterday, and chairmen of the banking committees in both chambers ordered brief hearings this week.

The program, substantially that outlined by Mr. Roosevelt some weeks ago, would provide for federal loans for such projects as toll roads, public works and rural electrification, designed to be self-liquidating. The RFC would do the financing, and congress would make appropriations to meet deficits whenever it appeared that assets were not worth their book value.

Chairman Wagner, Democrat, New York, of the senate banking committee and Majority Leader Barkley, Democrat, Kentucky, pointed out that the administration made one major concession in abandoning a proposed $500,000,000 in foreign loans. It substituted a $100,000,000 increase in the export-import bank authorization for financing exports.

Other senators contended that only a few of the proposed projects actually would be self-liquidating.

Senator Connally, Democrat, Texas, said of a proposal to lend money to build toll roads:

"I don't know of a road in the United States, except possibly one between Washington and New York, that could be self-liquidating on a toll basis. The people just won't use them when free roads are available."

On the house side, Republican Leader Martin, Republican, Massachusetts, called the program "that glorified presidential pork barrel."

While the lending program awaited committee action, the senate turned attention to house-approved amendments broadening the social security act. The house scheduled minor legislation.

Major controversies were expected in the senate over proposals to grant substantially increased old age benefits and to give less-wealthy states a larger proportionate share of federal old age pension funds.

Acting Minority Leader Austin, Republican, Vermont, said Republicans would oppose abandonment of the present 50-50 matching arrangement for the distribution of government pension money.

"If that is abandoned," he said, "it will recreate sectional feeling and result in chaos."

VOTE DELAYED ON NEUTRALITY

lette, Progressive, Wisconsin; Johnson, Republican, California; Capper, Republican, Kansas, and Borah, Republican, Idaho.

There were immediate reports, however, that Democratic Leader Barkley would seek to take the issue to the floor despite the committee action. He could do this if he could get senate approval of a motion to discharge the committee from consideration of the legislation.

Some members suggested that the only way to avoid a deadlock in the committee or a filibuster in the senate was to bring out a compromise bill. The administration wants to repeal the existing arms embargo against warring nations, but a half dozen other proposals have been made by individual senators.

Meanwhile, reports spread in well-informed congressional circles that President Roosevelt desires congress to remain in session at least until mid-August.

The president's view, it was said, was based on the belief that if war comes in Europe, it will be after next month's harvest season, and that if congress is still here, any action necessary to keep this country out of the conflict could be expedited.

The motion to postpone consideration was made by Senator Clark, Democrat, Missouri.

In opposing the motion Chairman Pittman, Democrat, Nevada, was joined by Senators Harrison, Democrat, Mississippi, Wagner, Democrat, New York, Connally, Democrat, Texas, Thomas, Democrat, Utah, Guffey, Democrat, Pennsylvania, Murray, Democrat, Montana, Schwellenbach, Democrat, Washington, Barkley, Democrat, Kentucky, Green, Democrat, Rhode Island, and Pepper, Democrat, Florida. Pepper, out of town, gave his proxy to Pittman.

the protest to congress. No violence occurred.

Calling for an early morning mass meeting at the parade here, strike leaders declared they intended to close every WPA project in Hennepin county. Plans also were being shaped for a march on the Minneapolis city hall. Duluth workers were summoned to a mass meeting to vote on a further strike. At St. Paul last night, 2,500 at a mass meeting were told by strike leaders that all projects there would be picketed today. One delegation from the St. Paul meeting was instructed to call upon Mayor William Fallon, of St. Paul, today and demand reversal of his declaration that there would be no municipal relief for those leaving WPA jobs, while another was ordered to visit Governor Harold Stassen to urge him to rescind a threat by county welfare boards to deny county aid to strikers.

From Linus Glotzbach, state WPA administrator, came a statement that with the exception of Minneapolis, peaceful conditions prevailed over Minnesota and that most projects would be operating today, although he expected virtually a complete shutdown in Minneapolis.

[illegible] There is a [illegible] after Sunday [illegible] are a chore. While his mother was gathering them up and [illegible] the weekly [illegible] Mickie [illegible] supposed to [illegible]

"Mickie, Mickie, where are you?"

No Mickie appeared so his mother went out to look for him. As she stepped out of the front yard she met one of the neighbors leading Mickie. Mickie was soaking wet and plastered with mud. It was thick on his shoes and ran in streaks down his face and his hands were sticky and grimy. The neighbor looked grim.

"This young man of yours has just broken four bottles of milk and I don't know how many more belonging to the other people on the block. No, I don't understand either. I don't think he does, but the sad fact remains that he collected the milk as he went and broke the bottles on the curb to see the milk run down the gutter. I wish you'd try to keep him home."

That is only one of Mickie's deeds. He was helping mother in the kitchen and poured the contents of the sugar bowl into the sink and turned on the water. He got into the pantry and poured the salad oil on the floor and emptied whatever he could reach into the mess. So it goes day by day until his mother begins to think that perhaps her son is feeble minded.

He isn't. He is highly intelligent and is seeking ways to apply his powers to the life around him. He wants to do something with the world he finds at hand and his technique is bad owing to a lack of experience. If he could find things to do that he could do with joy he would not bother people so much. But what can a small boy of four, very active, very much alive, find for himself to do without getting into trouble? Not much you will agree.

Punishing such a child by making him sit still, by tying him in the yard, putting him to bed, setting him in a corner, is bad for what ails him. He needs to use the energy he has instead of damming it up. The more he is confined the more pressure is put on him to get into action. He has to get into action to lift the pressure, the sooner the better. Give him something to do, some hard work that requires energy and he will be much better.

This is not easy for mothers who do their own work, who cannot supply jobs on demand. The nursery school, the neighborhood group, an older child in charge, are good ways out of this predicament. This sort of child needs tools, wagons, big things to work with, and he should work long enough to get thoroughly tired. Punishment won't help at all.

It is not hard to cure your youngster of maddening little ways, if you go at it right. Be guided by Angelo Patri's booklet, "Annoying Habits." Send for it, enclosing ten cent. Address Angelo Patri, care the Monroe News-Star, Postoffice Box 150, Times Square Station, New York, N. Y.

For 'Internal Improvement'

The purpose of the [illegible] made then was internal improvement, a definition not far from [illegible] by the president in his [illegible] of the lending plan. He [illegible] have the loans spent for United States goods, however. The port of [illegible] Peru borrowed $2[illegible],000,000 in 1926 for port improvement. That same year found Rio de Janeiro in Brazil borrowing $1,770,000 to move Castle Hill out of the way of city expansion.

Six years earlier the government of Brazil borrowed $25,000,000 for electrification of a suburban division of the government-owned central railway and for other purposes.

In 1928 Chile took $16,000,000 for such public works as public buildings, irrigation works, railroads and sewage systems. The city of Baranquilla, Colombia, borrowed $2,500,000 to improve the water and sewage systems, pave roads and build a packing plant.

In 1927 Peru borrowed $50,000,000 to stabilize her currency and finance a mortgage bank.

High-Powered Spending

Cuba went on a spending binge in 1928, 1929 and 1930, borrowing $20,000,000 in the first two years and $40,000,000 in the third. The principal product was the 700-mile great central highway from tip to tip of the island, although waterworks, schools and sanitary systems also were built.

There was a tremendous enthusiasm about going into South America with loans during the twenties. Prior to the World war European countries had monopolized the South American capital market while Yankee bankers were included tightly out. Came the war and Europe needed all the cash it could get for its own affairs and the United States began moving in. A certain portion of the Yankee money went to clean out the European debts, although the department of commerce estimates it was not an extraordinary portion.

In any event, between 1914 when the World war started and 1938, when the next one was getting ready to start, United States investors poured $1,861,000,000 into Latin America for government bonds or government-guaranteed bonds. Of this, $1,072,000,000 is still outstanding. And of that outstanding, $711,000,000 now is in default.

That is the picture confronting congress as it considers whether to make another half billion dollars available for Latin American improvements.

ALL-STAR GAME TEAMS APPEAR EVENLY MATCHED

EXPECT 60,000 FANS WILL SEE CONTEST TODAY

Red Ruffing And Paul Derringer Are Starting Pitchers

By Gayle Talbot

NEW YORK, July 11 (AP)—Sixty thousand fans were expected to swarm into vast Yankee stadium today for the seventh annual all-star charity tussle between picked teams of the National and American leagues.

The cry "play ball" was scheduled at 1 o'clock eastern standard time, with big Rufus the Red Ruffing of the Yankees firing them across for the American leaguers and Paul Derringer, Cincinnati ace, pitching for the visiting Nationals.

In some respects the battle promised to be the most evenly and truly fought since the inception of the mid-season classic in 1933. Both leagues were showing the works, fielding what their masterminds considered the strongest possible combinations, regardless of batting averages and the affections of the fans.

Six members of the great New York Yankees were in the starting line-up for the American leaguers, with two from the second-place Boston Red Sox and one from the Detroit Tigers. The Nationals, bitterly determined to make it two straight over the rival league, came in with five of the biggest guns of the Cincinnati Reds and one each from Chicago, St. Louis, New York and Pittsburgh.

Both Manager Joe McCarthy of the Americans and Manager Gabby Hartnett of the Nationals could have named a starting line-up with greater batting power judging by the season's averages, but this appeared not to be the first consideration. McCarthy picked his team with Yankees obviously figuring they had an important advantage in playing on their home field.

Morris Arnovich of the Phillies, the leading National league slugger with a mark of .353, was not picked to start. Instead Hartnett chose Ducky Medwick of the Cardinals, who is hitting only .330 this season but has clouted .389 in the last five all-star games.

As a result, the two line-ups bumping heads today were not on paper quite the dream teams of past years. The collective batting average of the eight starting American leaguers, not counting the pitcher, was only .315 as against .310 for the Nationals.

These marks would have looked puny in other all-star struggles, when the policy was to pour all the available batting power into the line-ups, even at the expense of playing men in other than their customary positions. The American leaguers learned a painful lesson last year at Cincinnati when Jimmie Foxx, a third baseman for the day, made a wild throw that virtually handed the Nationals a 4 to 1 victory.

Foxx, one of the American league's top hitters, was passed up as starting first baseman today in favor of Hank Greenberg of Detroit, whose season sticking average is only .286, but is leading his league in home runs. The entire American league batting order, in fact, was composed of distance hitters.

The strangest aspect of the National league line-up was the sight of four Cincinnati Reds, Lonnie Frey, Ival Goodman, Frank McCormick and Ernie Lombardi, batting in their regular order. Hartnett thus preserved the most effective run-making combination in the National league.

For the first time, neither all-star pilot planned to use a southpaw pitcher. After starting Ruffing, McCarthy chose to follow with Tommy Bridges, Detroit veteran, and Bobby Feller, great Cleveland speed baller. Hartnett's choices were Derringer, Bill Lee of Chicago and Whitlow Wyatt of Brooklyn, each working three innings unless the opposition failed to cooperate. Each club was equipped with eight pitchers in case of emergency.

At last account, local bookmakers were offering 2 to 1 against the National leaguers, but doing little business. The all star game is not a betting affair like the world series, one reason being that the average American or National league fan seldom believes the strongest team has been selected from his circuit. Peeved because his favorites have been passed up, he won't wager.

LEN HARVEY WINS LIGHTHEAVY 'TITLE'

LONDON, July 11 (AP) Len Harvey, British and empire light heavyweight champion, won a 15-round decision over Jock McAvoy Monday in a bout billed as being for the world light heavyweight championship.

A crowd of 100,000 at White City stadium saw Harvey finish strongly to take the decision after being floored for a count of one in the second round.

Harvey weighed 175 pounds to McAvoy's 167.

The bout was designated as a world title affair after John Henry Lewis was refused permission to fight Harvey because of his failing eyesight and the British Boxing Board of Control decided it would no longer recognize Lewis as world champion.

KALLIO PUTS IN NEW FANS

Monroe Wrestling Promoter Says Ladies May Leave Their Fans At Home

"Ladies' night," which will be observed by the Monroe Wrestling arena, 310 Walnut street, at Thursday night's weekly mat program, need not be the signal for the ladies to turn out with fans in hand, as they did last week, Professor Gus Kallio said yesterday afternoon.

The ladies may leave their fans at home next Thursday night, and the reason is not that Kallio fears they may rise up in their ire and toss them at the wrestlers, but that he is having installed at the arena some airplane fans designed to blow cooling currents upon the members of the fair sex.

The fans, of course, will blow cooling currents upon the men, as well as the ladies. Revolving currents of air is the principle for which the fans are designed. They are replacing a cooling system installed two weeks ago and which was unsatisfactory.

Ladies will be admitted to the Thursday night program at half-price, provided that their tickets are accompanied by a clipping of the arena's advertisement which appeared in last Sunday's Morning World and which will appear in Wednesday's News-Star and Thursday's Morning World.

Frankie Hill, of Waxahachie, Tex., will meet Bob (Buck) Davidson, of Terre Haute, Ind., in the main event of the program, and Sailor Watkins, of Amarillo, Tex., will meet Dizzy Davis, of Houston, Tex., in the semi-final.

SOX TROUNCE CRACKERS 3-1 IN 11 INNINGS

Monroe Club Will Engage Buckshots Here Tonight In First Of Two Games

GREENWOOD, Miss., July 11.—(Special)—The Monroe White Sox, pace makers of the Cotton States league, defeated the Greenwood Crackers 3 to 1, in an 11-inning thriller here Monday night. It was the first victory for the league leaders in the three-game series with the locals.

BUCKS HERE TONIGHT

The Monroe White Sox, back home after a hard fought series at Greenwood, will engage the Greenville Buckshots here tonight at Casino park in the first of a two-game series. The Bucks are coming here for the first time since Frank Whitehouse succeeded Jimmy Powell as the Greenville pilot. Tonight's game will begin at 8:15 o'clock.

The Greenwood Crackers, serious contender for the Sox position at the head of the league, will be here following the Greenville stand for three games. The Crackers will be in Casino park on Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Bobby Schang, Monroe catcher, is out of the locals' lineup at the present, nursing a knee injury, according to reports yesterday from Greenwood, but he is expected to be ready for service again soon.

The score was tied 1-and-1 at the end of the ninth frame but the invaders scored twice in their half of the eleventh to win the game.

Floyd Speer, a Monroe right-hander, turned in a stellar hurling performance after a wobbly start. Speer was reached for five hits and one run in the first two innings, but he finished strong and allowed only three more hits in the last nine innings.

Justin Ray started on the mound for Greenwood and allowed the Sox only five hits and one run for eight innings but he went out at the beginning of the eighth after hurting his hand in fielding a hot grounder by Johnny Conway in the eighth. Atwater, Greenwood's relief hurler, allowed two hits in the ninth but got through to the eleventh before the Sox got two more hits and scored the winning runs.

A single by Guy "Red" Pruitt with runners on second and third won the game for the Louisianians. Johnny Conway, first up in the eleventh, got his third hit of the game. Frank Hargrove popped out to Manager "Dusty" Rhodes at second, but, with Manager Doug Taitt at bat, Conway stole second. Taitt drew a base on balls. Frank Hackney fanned, but Conway and Taitt stole third and second respectively. Pruitt then got his first and only hit of the game, a single into center field, to score Conway and Taitt. Hank Taylor flied out to John Taylor in center field to retire the side.

The game should have been over in the ninth, but Frank Hargrove, who would have scored if he had "played safe," was caught napping off second for the first Monroe out in the ninth. Hargrove led off in the inning with a double into right field. With Taitt at bat, Hargrove was caught off second. Taitt then singled into center field with a hit, but there was no Monroe player on base to score.

Hackney walked in the same frame, and both Taitt and Hackney advanced to third and second when Pruitt grounded out. But in a spot where a hit would have still meant victory, Hank Taylor grounded out to retire the side.

The Crackers scored first in the second inning. With one out, Dace Davis doubled into center field and went to third on Bill Gregory's single into left field. Ray then flied to Frank Hargrove in left field, and Davis tagged up at third and raced home after the catch. Hargrove rifled the ball from the outfield to Catcher Hank Taylor, but Taylor dropped the throw and Davis scored, and Gregory pulled up at second. John Taylor then singled into right field and Gregory headed home only to be thrown out at the

Nation's No. 1 Trapshooter Is Modest Ohio Soil Tiller

Joe Heistand Has Won Just About Everything In Sport Of Flying Clays

By Fritz Howell

(Pinch-Hitting For Whitney Martin)

COLUMBUS, O., July 11.—(AP)—The sports trail wound Monday down through the Buckeye state's "knob" country to a farm just outside Hillsboro.

You wouldn't expect to find a national sports champion in blue denim overalls on a corn cultivator, but there he is—32-year-old Joe Hiestand, farmer and the nation's No. 1 trapshooter.

He's won everything in the sport of the flying clays, except the Grand American Handicap which almost annually goes to some novice. So how about listening in as Joe swings around on his cultivator seat and answers a query on "How does anyone become a good trapshooter?"

"The first thing," says Joe, "is to train like any other athlete. You have to keep regular hours, live temperately and get plenty of sleep. You can't hit those things if you've got the jitters."

"And after you've done all that, how do you hit those flying targets?"

"Well," comes the answer, "there's not much to that. You just point your gun at the spot you think the target is going to be when the shot gets there, and then you squeeze the trigger. If you guess right, you hit it. Of course, the wind has something to do with it, so you have to figure that. And sometimes the background you're shooting into will fool you. Bright sunlight and cloudy days require a different technique. And it helps if you can guess which way the target will travel from the trap. But outside of that there isn't much to it."

Joe stays on his farm when the crops are in, but this year took a few days off to win the Ohio state championship with 200 in a row. In the winter he follows the tournament trail through the south. He starts out with a couple of suitcases and returns with several crates filled with silver trophies and a pocket full of cash. He's an amateur, but under the peculiar trapshoot set-up, only amateurs can win cash. The professionals shoot for trophies only.

Joe doesn't know how much cash he has won since he started target shooting seven years ago, but he had a room full of trophies.

Last year Joe was named captain of the all-America trapshooting team, but that was about the least of his achievements. Tops among his performances was a string of 1,179 hits at 16-yard targets, almost double the former record of 621 which Boyd Duncan of Lucy, Tenn., hung up away back in 1923.

Joe broke 900 in a row at the Grand American the first time that feat had been approached, and he wound up as the high-average all-around winner of the world. On registered targets he broke 3,017 of 3,050 at 16 yards, 376 of 400 tough doubles in which two targets fly from the trap at the same time, and 830 of 900 from the 25-yard mark at handicaps for a grand average of .9708. That 25-yard mark at handicaps, incidentally, is as far from the traps as you can get, and it gives the flying clays a start of about 90 feet before you can start to "draw your bead."

Farmer Heistand, a fine field shot, entered a turkey shoot seven years ago. It was his first attempt at clay targets and he was against a good field, but he won all the turkeys. That started him, and he's still at it.

Since then he's won the North American championship three times, the live bird title once, the doubles crown twice, and the Class AA laurels three times all in national competition. He hasn't kept account of the lesser titles.

He insists, however, that "there's nothing to it except being sure to shoot where the target's going to be when the shot gets there."

4 PLAYERS EVEN FOR QUALIFYING P. G. A. HONORS

Split In Ranks Of Pros Widens As Shute Gets No Assurance Of Eligibility

NEW YORK, July 11.—(AP)—While the split in the ranks of the professional golfers association widened into a chasm, four players Monday tied for qualifying honors in the National P. G. A. championship with 36-hole scores of 138, six under par for the "pitch-and-putt" course of the Pomonok country club.

At the end of a day of sub-par scoring that never has been equalled in a major championship, young Ben Hogan, former Texan from White Plains, N. Y., E. J. Harrison of Oak Park, Ill.; Ky Laffoon, former Ryder Cupper from Ravinia, Ill., and Emerick Kocsis of Orion, Mich., staked joint claims to the Alec Smith memorial trophy.

The 6,354-yard Pomonok course took a terrific lacing. Thirty-one of the 109 players broke par for the second round by from one to six shots, with Ray Mangrum, Oakmont, Pa., "thin man" turning in the best 18-hole card, a 66 that came within one shot of the competitive course record.

For the 36 holes, there were 33 men under standard figures. Those 33, together with defending Champion Paul Runyan, who was automatically exempt; 25 who finished at 147 or better, and the five men who won in an 11-man play-off at 148 for five places, went into the first round of match play, at 18 holes Tuesday morning.

The day's fireworks didn't break loose until Kocsis, in the last threesome to finish, had canned a curling 22-footer on the 18th green for his 67 and 138.

Denny Shute, two-time former champion and former Ryder cup player, had qualified easily at 143. Originally barred for getting his dues in two days late, then brought into the field yesterday when the star players threatened a "sit-down" strike, Shute still had no definite assurance that the executive committee would qualify him for match play.

They wouldn't. That developed when the players who had signed the Shute petition, with five members of the executive committee, gathered in the club-house while the 11-man play-off was scheduled to start.

Behind locked doors, they went into heated session. Suddenly George Jacobus, P. G. A. president but also a member of the committee, broke out of the room and announced:

"Shute definitely will play. I'm overriding the committee, but he surely will play."

No sooner had Jacobus emerged—the signal for the players waiting on the tee to start—than he was followed by Secretary Tom Walsh of Chicago. Walsh said:

"I'm making this statement to the press. The executive committee voted that the constitution and the by-laws of the association be upheld and therefore Denny Shute is not permitted to play."

Now it was Jacobus' turn again. Disregarding the fact that, in addition to the five members present, the six other committeemen had been polled by wire, the P. G. A. prexy asked:

"Did you get Walsh's statement? Well disregard it. I'm overriding the vote of the executive committee so that this tournament can go on and the P. G. A. won't look bad. And I think I'm right. The committee may say I haven't that power, but I'll take that chance so this tournament won't be a flop."

In the midst of all this confusion, added to the stir created by Gene Sarazen's statement that he would ask three committee members—Walsh, Jack Mackie and Tom Boyd—to resign because they offered Shute $300 to withdraw, a lot of extra-fine scoring almost was obscured.

The best of the day was Mangrum's. Ray, who had a bad winter because he was suffering from a bad back, hit all but one fairway, hit every green, and was putting like a streak on the way to his sensational 66. He birdied three of the par 5's, chipped stiff to the pin twice. Ran down putts of from six to 25 feet, and then hung a 15-footer on the lip at the 18th for what would have been a 65 and a five-way tie for the lead.

OUACHITA VALLEY

CAMDEN WHIPS CROSSETT

CAMDEN, Ark., July 11.—(Special)—The Camden Kraftsmen capitalized on Crossett errors late in the game to defeat the Millers, 8 to 5, here Sunday afternoon.

Camden outhit Crossett, 12 to 6, but five errors late in the game proved the downfall of the Millers. Camden was held to one run and only three hits by Robinson, Crossett hurler, until the seventh and eighth frames, when the Crossett defense cracked up. Although Hodge and Curry, local pitchers, gave up 12 safe hits they were backed by errorless ball.

WA-HA'S BEAT VOLS

RUSTON, La., July 11.—(Special)—The Hodge Wa-Ha's took an early lead with four runs in the second inning to coast to a 6 to 3 victory over the Ruston Volunteers here Sunday.

Ruston was held to one run until the last inning when Davis hit a home run with one runner on base. The hitting was about even, Ruston getting 10 hits while the Wa-Ha's cornered 11 safe blows. Gimber led the Hodge attack with three hits in five times at bat.

Score by innings:

Hodge	040 011 000—	6	11	2
Ruston	000 000 102—	3	10	2

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Eddie Brietz

NEW YORK, July 11.—(AP)—New York fans now are saying darn the Sox. . . . Baseball barons here for the all-star game agree something must be done about the St. Louis situation—but what? . . . Jimmy Grippo, manager of Mello Bettina, crashed Billy Conn's workout yesterday just in time to see Conn bop a sparmate through the ropes. Ouch! . . . The next gong Joe Jacobs hears will be wedding bells—in about a month. . . . Tip: The American league never has lost an All-Star tilt in a home park. . . . Tony Galento collected four grand for four appearances last week.

George Trevor, New York Sun: "You wouldn't call that dramatic sit-down strike of the golf pros mutiny on the high tees, would you?"

Have the seven other American league clubs signed a round robin asking the Red Sox to do more air traveling? . . . Louis Vs. Pastor at Detroit in September will be officially announced Friday. . . . Mail reaching this bureau indicates golf bugs all over are rooting for Denny Shute in his row with the P. G. A. brass hats. . . . Barney Ross has taken over a $250,000 printing business here. . . . Which means he won't have time to play the lead in "Golden Boy" in an up-state amateur production next month. . . . The New York Boxing commission has ordered Joe Jacobs to appear today and explain that Gimmick stuff.

Leo Durocher, Bill Terry and Zeke Bonura are registered in the same hotel for the All-Star game. . . . For the protection of other guests, no two of them will be allowed in the elevators at the same time.

Mike Kelly of Minneapolis may cook up a couple of deals at the All-Star huddle. . . . He is here with a pitcher in one pocket and a shortstop in another and is trying to peddle 'em to the Cubs, Dodgers, Red Sox and Pirates. . . . Price tags of between $25,000 and $50,000 are attached to each. . . . Walter Hagen, again sporting a double chin, is the only guy in the P. G. A. tourney who played in the first meet back in 1916. . . . London yarns have Tommy Farr all washed up. . . . Clyde Beatty has opened a lion and tiger taming school and may add Professors Brown and Rigney of the White Sox to the faculty.

Herman Taylor, who owns five per cent of El Galento, was on a Philly-New York train when Tony went on the air with Charlie McCarthy Sunday night. . . . Taylor had bought a portable radio especially for the occasion. . . . When the time came to tune in he found he could get almost every station in the country except the one from which Galento was broadcasting.

Boston papers are inquiring: "Are the Yankees still in the league?"

M'PHAIL MAGIC PAYS AT GATES

Ballyhoo Of Dodger Pilot Brings Big Dividends In Series With Giants

By Bill White

NEW YORK, July 11.—(AP)—When the American Society of Magicians hands out its annual award for the neatest trick of the year, don't be surprised if Leland S. (Larry) MacPhail is the recipient.

That happy chuckling sound you hear is MacPhail, the general manager of the definitely-not-daffy Dodgers whose personal magic lured some 90,000 fans through the turnstiles at Ebbetts field last week-end with a stunt so astute that the Merry Mac is safely esconsed as the National league's most potent publicist.

Nominally a Giant-Dodger series is good box office. This week it was super-colossal because MacPhail led the natives to believe a struggle as epic as Custer's last stand, in a setting hotter than the Hell Hole of Calcutta, and as decisive as Waterloo, was to take place.

Actually there is a rivalry between the two clubs that is strictly kosher. But MacPhail fanned the flames to a fever pitch by making excellent use of last week's Leo Durocher-Zeke Bonura tiff. Shortly after that little flurry on the field he charged—and very publicly—that Colonel Bill Terry was trying to run the league and the umpires, that Bonura's life wasn't worth one of his belived bananas, and hinted that for the price of an admission ticket you might see a Giant-Dodger feud with a slight case of bloodshed thrown in.

So on Friday some 36,444 wended to Brooklyn, prepared to root like mad for the Dodgers (always a wise procedure in Brooklyn) and hoping the guy next to you was little enough to bop, the bloodthirsty turned out so successfully that standing room only tickets at $1.10 sold faster than tickets to Sally Rand's nude ranch.

And what actually happened there on the sun scorched turf of Ebbetts field? Not a thing except a very good baseball game. It was a good game, and so were the ones that followed, but that wasn't the point. Expectantly the crowd sat poised, ready for the kill that never happened. There was a full-throated, pulsating Brooklyn boo everytime Bonura batted, a hopeful murmur when Durocher got on first base and stood there with his enemy, and a chuckle when somebody tossed out a banana at Bonura, but that's about all.

And it was the same Saturday and Sunday. By that time there was a suspicion going around that MacPhail was only kidding. Certainly none of the Dodgers seemed anxious to finish with a cutlass or bludgeon what MacPhail had started with a story.

So the extra police precautions and the drinks in paper cups instead of bottles were only stage properties after all.

MacPhail was listening to the tinkle of the cash register, a sound very dear to his heart and happily predicting the biggest home attendance since the 1930 club drew over a million at home. Already they've passed 500,000.

TARZAN AND THE FIRES OF TOHR

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

UNITED FEATURE SYNDICATE, Inc.
REX MAXON

"It is futile to attack the unyielding walls of Tohr," the Shahn declared. "But we must try," Ukah insisted, "for I have friends there who will die unless we deliver them. One, called Tarzan of the Apes, twice saved my life. I gave him my word to bring aid."

"Then your promise must be kept," the valiant Shahn replied, "even at the price of our lives. Such is the code of Rathor. And now, we start at once to gather our warriors. The muster will require several days." "That may be too late," Ukah answered sadly . . .

. . . Meanwhile, events in Tohr were moving swiftly toward a climax, a climax interwoven with Tarzan's ultimate fate. Ahtea, informed of a plot for mutiny among the slaves of the jewel pits, hastened there to uncover the conspiracy and put an end to its originator

Runik, the spy, pointed an accusing finger at Kailuk, the Rathorian. "Bring him here," Ahtea commanded. Then a cunning light came into her eyes as she noted that Kailuk was chained next to Tarzan and O'Rourke. "Bring the white men, too," the queen added pointedly.

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, July 11.—(AP)—With speculative eyes shifting from the cloudy foreign scene to encouraging business prospects at home, the stock market today put on a fair-sized recovery push.

Gains ran to more than a point for leaders in the forenoon when volume was about double that of the preceding sluggish session. Prices were near the best at the close but the pace of dealings slackened in the final two hours. Transfers approximated 450,000 shares for the full proceedings, or more than 150,000 above yesterday's turnover.

NEW YORK, July 11.—(AP)—The stock market donned its buying shoes today and leaders put on a recovery [illegible] for fractions to more than a point.

While the trading pace was about twice as fast as in the previous session, the ticker tape frequently rested. Prices were around the best near the fourth hour.

The growing belief of speculative forces that the market is quite a distance behind business, brokers said, had much to do with the better action of the list. Some still kept commitments light because of fears for Europe, but on the whole it was thought overseas apprehension had lessened materially. Domestic labor [illegible] apparently continued as a handicap.

Securities at London edged forward [illegible] steady at Amsterdam and Paris. Bonds exhibited quiet and selective strength. Commodities [illegible].

Commonwealth and Southern preferred reflected likelihood of a compromise [illegible] permitting a TVA [illegible] to facilitate purchase of [illegible] of the former's Tennessee [illegible]. Other utilities drew support as profits estimates for the [illegible] companies brightened.

[illegible] were not particularly [illegible] evidence of the largest [illegible] domestic demand [illegible] several years.

CHAMPION STEER TO BE EXHIBITED HERE

CHAMPION STEER WILL BE SHOWN

Exhibition Scheduled For Saturday Night At Motor Company

Enjoying accommodations befitting his rank, Mercer, the Aberdeen Angus steer who won the grand championship at the 1938 International Livestock exposition, is making a 5,000-mile tour of the nation and will make a one-day stop Saturday in Monroe where he will be exhibited.

The exhibition, which will take place at Lennon Motor company, corner of Washington and North Third streets at 8 p.m., will be preceded by a parade through the business district of the city starting half an hour earlier. No charge will be made and a large attendance of people interested in farming and stock raising is expected.

The tour is being conducted under the auspices of the Firestone Farm Service bureau of Akron, O.

Traveling in a spacious trailer modeled after a modern stock barn complete [illegible] and the latest [illegible] the champion steer is being accompanied by a cattle expert, a feeder and caretaker [illegible] manager.

A nationally known breeder, feeder and cattle judge, Rank C. Forbes will conduct a discussion of the features which made Mercer a champion. The exhibit will then be thrown open to a round table discussion of cattle breeding and feeding in general, with visitors welcome to take part in the open forum. A new sound motion picture will also be shown featuring practical [illegible] type of farm operation as well as many champion farmers throughout the country.

Raus Brown, brother of Irene Brown, the 14-year-old 4-H club girl who raised Mercer and fitted him for the championship, is accompanying the tour party as caretaker and feeder. The tour is under the management of L. E. Copple, former Nebraska farm boy who now represents the truck and tractor tire division of the Firestone Tire and Rubber company.

STAY STAYS BULLET

FORT WAYNE, Ind.—A corset stay kept Mrs. Lucille Rees from becoming a casualty.

MILWAUKEE—It sounds unbelievable but Arthur de Meire, restaurant operator, vouched for this one.

It developed that party No. 1 was en route from Minneapolis to Detroit to visit party No. 2 and—vice versa.

TOUGH BUNNY

DES MOINES, Ia.—Lee Hartman and his fishing companion, Roy Caldwell, saw a rabbit jumping up and down, "acting funny," so they stopped their car to investigate.

The rabbit was giving battle to a five-foot bull snake that had attempted to swallow one of her young. The men said they watched while the bunny seized the snake, shook it and killed it.

EROSION THEME OF DISCUSSION

Chemurgy Also Explained In Address By Dr. Roy Thompson

RUSTON, La., July 11.—(Special)—Social and economic effects of soil erosion and chemurgy in colleges were discussed by two guest speakers at Louisiana Tech Monday afternoon in connection with Tech's special program of lectures featuring the summer session.

Dr. Roy L. Thompson, president of the Federal Land bank of New Orleans and general agent of the farm credit administration for the fifth district, said that money lenders are interested in soil conservation because "they want to know that farms are being properly maintained before accepting farms as collateral for loans."

"Formerly we often had to advise farmers to terrace their land before we could grant them a loan," Dr. Thompson said. "Today, however, many farmers are applying for loans for the purpose of terracing their land.

"Soil erosion makes farms poor, and you can't keep a good man on a poor farm. When the good men leave, social and economic effects become apparent. Schools and churches also leave and communities suffer, all because the desirable top soil was not properly conserved."

Though flaying the evils of erosion, Dr. Thompson pointed out some "advantages" of the washing and wearing of soil.

"Some of the country's most beautiful scenery has resulted from soil erosion," he stated. "Furthermore, erosion has forced man to utilize soil to its best advantages."

Dr. H. L. Griffin, dean of the school of liberal arts at Southwestern Louisiana Institute, Lafayette, said "there is a great opportunity for colleges to contribute to the field of chemurgy. Soon there will be a demand for thousands of college graduates in chemistry, chemical engineering and other scientific fields to aid in finding new uses for surplus farm products and by-products. Chemical research starting in colleges must be followed by factory research and market research."
